STORY TOLD OF SHIPWRECK

BY SURVIVORS OF COAST-
ING SCHOONER

Eight Died of Exposure, Hunger and Thirst—Six Washed Away or Crazed by Their Experiences Jumped Into Sea.

Boston, Oct. 16.—A story of a north Atlantic shipwreck, in which eight seamen suffered so fearfully from exposure, hunger and thirst that six either died outright, were washed away or crazed by their fearful experience threw themselves into the sea, was told to day by two survivors of the coasting schooner Vannam and King, which was beaten to pieces by a gale off the South Carolina coast Oct. 6. The two men who lived through the five days and were rescued by the schooner Stillman F. Kelly, which arrived here late to night, are William Thomas and William G. Warneck. The steamer struck the storm Oct. 6. Next day she sprang a leak and filled rapidly and was soon on her beam ends. The crew huddled on the weather side, lashing themselves to the bulwarks. That night a great wave broke both legs of Seaman Arthur. The next night he died and was dropped overboard. All of them huddled on a piece of the afterhouse. Matt Chase's mind gave way Sunday night and he jumped into the sea. Monday Captain Maxwell became violently insane and followed the mate's example. A third suicide followed, the engineer throwing himself into the sea a few hours after Maxwell. A colored seaman died Monday night and the body was cast into the sea.

Relief came twelve hours later, when the schooner Stillman F. Kelly sighted the craft and hove to alongside. Both Thomas and Warneck had to be taken off in slings and for two days were unable to move. The Kelly arrived here this afternoon, but the seamen were still too exhausted to land.

The biennial report of the publication board showed a remarkable increase in the volume of business done and number of publications. Debts resting upon the church's publications have been cancelled. Total receipts were $143,022.16. Right of Way Held by Trains
Until Injunctions Were Secured—Burlington and Illinois
Central Interested.

Litchfield, Oct. 16.—A limited train southbound on the Wabash railroad early to day prevented a gang of laborers from laying the rails of the interurban electric line across the Wabash right of way by stopping at the proposed crossing and remaining an hour until relieved by a freight train. Two watchmen who had attempted to prevent the laying of the track were seized and bound by the laborers previous to the arrival of the fast train. The laborers had succeeded in laying the rails across the Burlington and the Illinois Central tracks and were about to begin laying across the Wabash, when the limited train prevented.

Judge Paul McWilliams was routed out of bed by Illinois Central representatives to issue an injunction prohibiting the crossing of the Illinois Central tracks, but before he could issue the injunction the rails had been laid. Later the interurban company secured two injunctions preventing the tearing up of its rails from the Illinois Central and Burlington tracks. Soon afterward the Big Four and Wabash roads each secured injunctions forbidding the interurban company from laying rails across their tracks. The Litchfield line is a link in the trolley chain, now nearly completed, from St. Louis to Bloomington, Ill.

HELPED BY FOLK

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 16.—The great battle between the local Republican organization and the City party is on. The municipal reform organization, recently formed here, was enlisted to day by a visit of Governor Folk of Missouri, who came to lend his voice in the interest of good government. The governor to night addressed a large and enthusiastic audience in the Academy of Music. His speech was devoted entirely to denunciation of bribery and graft, and a plea for clean government. He urged his hearers to support those who are fighting for a clean government. "The moral revolution now sweeping over the land means patriotism that comes from the heart, not from the head," he said. "Many men would be willing to give up to give up their lives for their city or state if they are needed some times, and this kind of patriotism cannot be too highly commended, but the man who is willing to live for his city and state every day is the man that is needed just now."

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with just a little dandruff, you may be sure, whether he has dandruff to amount to anything, in nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy this cause, and you remove the effect," said by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Birthday at Her Home in

A short time since Miss Mary E. Henry celebrated her eightieth birthday at her home in St. Louis. The lady was born in Kentucky, but spent her early life in this place. She was the daughter of Captain Henry, so well known to the earliest residents of Jacksonville. His latest home was the place now occupied by Miss Cynthia Green, on the northwest corner of Westminster street and West College avenue. An interview in the St. Louis Republic says:

"I am just 80 years young," said Miss Henry, and her bright brown eyes twinkled. "I have invited some of the young men, like Mr. Isaac Sturgeon and my brother, William D. Henry, and some of the older men like my nephew, Rolla Wells, Dr. Luce, pastor of my church, and W. O. Mulligan, to my birthday party. I have issued more than forty-five invitations, and I wrote them myself. I made all the preparations for my party."

Miss Henry is slender, of erect carriage, and has a graceful, gliding walk. Her eyes are brown and bright. She proudly boasts that she can read a sign across the street without the aid of her glasses, and that the sign does not have to be as big as the side of a house.

Miss Henry possesses a cheerful disposition. She has a keen sense of humor and likes to joke and enjoys a wit. She was born in Lexington, Ky., Sept. 15, 1828. She was reared in Jacksonville, Ill., and has been a resident of St. Louis for thirty-five years.

"Last year I did not give a party, because all St. Louis celebrated my birthday anniversary. It was St. Louis day at the world's fair."

"Did you go out to the world's fair often?" she asked.

"Only ninety-eight times," was the answer. "Most of the time I went alone. It was a wonderful place. I was through all the state buildings, and the foreign buildings. I think the Austrian building was the most interesting of the foreign buildings. I went there a number of times. The New York state building was a magnificent building."

"The government building and the transportation building were interesting. The improvement in transportation during the last fifty years has been wonderful. The old emigrant wagons reminded me of the time when my father left Kentucky and went to Jacksonville, Ill. It took us two weeks to make the trip."

"I wrote a letter a few weeks ago to the Jacksonville papers telling what Jacksonville was when I first went there. Now it is quite a nice little city, but then, we were glad to get a log cabin in which to live."

"I was greatly interested in the Indian school at the world's fair. I compared the Indians of the school with the Indians of my childhood. The effects of civilization on the red men have been marvelous."

"People who complain and fret will never be 80 years young. If you want to live to be 80 years young you must let the sunshine into your mind, heart and soul."

"I attend to all my business affairs, and I read a great deal. I have read the Republic ever since I was large enough to read. I must have my paper every morning. The Bible and the Republic are about the only things I read nowadays."

"I have perfect use of all my faculties. My hearing is perfect, my eyesight is good and I can walk on myself and attend to business. I am a great walker. I walk half a mile to church every Sunday morning, and then home again. I attend the Maple Avenue Methodist church."

"I am going to give all my friends a good time at my birthday party because I don't expect to have another. I am going to let the gentlemen smoke and the ladies can gossip."

"Two years ago I said I did not expect to have another birthday anniversary, and Mr. Mulligan said: 'Miss Henry, I am going to dance the two-step with you when you are 82.' I am just as anxious to live now as I was two years ago, so I may dance the two-step yet."

Not long ago she wrote her aunt in Woodson a letter as follows:

"To Aunt Martha Henry, Woodson, Ill.—Dear Aunt, Please find enclosed my picture for the people of Woodson to see the oldest Henry in this part of the country. If the Good Father will be pleased to spare my life till Sept. 15th, I propose to celebrate my birthday by inviting as many of my friends as I can entertain in recognition of the goodness of God to me in all these years, will receive from 8 to 10 p. m. Will be delighted to have your company. To me eighty years seems a long time to live. It is interesting to look back over the past years and note the changes that have taken place. It was in September, 1828, that father left Lexington, Ky., and arrived in Jacksonville, Ill., Oct. 13, just two weeks on the road. I have a slight recollection of the camp fires, but a more vivid recollection of the log cabin we lived in with the sick chimney and runcible floor. I remember some time after when we were in better quarters, the former Governor Yates of Illinois was spending the evening with us. Mother told him about the floor getting very dirty and was at a loss to know what to do with it. Finally concluded to turn it over. Mr. Yates said: 'Mrs. Henry, what did you do with the other side when it became dirty?' You can locate the place where our cabin was situated from where father carried water, and the wind would blow some out of the bucket before he reached the cabin. It was a long way to come; it was where Dr. Prosser afterward lived. When I tell people about making candles, starch and soap—if they don't know that I was truthful—they wouldn't believe me."

"We came to St. Louis to make it our home, Oct. 13, 1829. I would like so much to visit Jacksonville again, would have been pleased to have spent my eightieth birthday there, but have outlived nearly all my friends that I once knew, could not think of putting up at a hotel, where once had known nearly every person in the place.

GROWING UP

There's something the matter with the child that fails to grow up. A child that grows up too much, however, without proper filling out of flesh, is almost as badly off. Nothing will help these pale, thin "weedy" children like Scott's Emulsion. It supplies the rounding out of flesh and the rich inward nourishment of blood and vital organs which insures rapid growth a healthy and uniform development.

"Our friends here are all, through the mercy of God, in usual health except Major, who has been a very sick man. He is better, but not able to attend to business, and has gone east for his health."

"Will direct this to Mr. Elbert Henry, 1311 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis. He will kindly forward it to you and oblige."

Mary E. Henry.

SO SOOTHING

Its Influence Has Been Felt by so Many Jacksonville Readers

The soothing influence of relief after suffering from Itching Piles, From Eczema, or any itchininess of the skin, makes one feel grateful to the remedy. Don's Ointment has soothed hundreds. Here's what one Jacksonville citizen says:

Mrs. C. Hance, of 279 East College avenue, says: "It is a pleasure to recommend a remedy of such great value as Don's Ointment. From experience I pronounce it a specific for irritation of the skin. I used it as a healing medium and as a soothing I never found its equal. I happened to see a notice in our daily paper what this ointment was for and next day going to Dr. H. Lee Hatch's drug store I procured a box. The first two or three applications benefited me and long before I had used the entire box the irritation ceased."

CLUB WOMEN

WILL MEET

State Federation Will Convene in Joliet, Tuesday—Sessions
Until Friday—Elaborate Program Prepared.

Several club women from all parts of Illinois will gather at Joliet this week when the eleventh annual meeting of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs is to be held. The convention begins Tuesday and lasts until Friday.

An elaborate program has been prepared and many matters of importance will come before the body. Delegates from 273 clubs will make Joliet their Mecca, each club sending from two to four representatives. The attendance at the convention at Decatur last year was 600, and that is expected to be beaten by at least 100.

Mrs. James Frake, president of the Illinois federation, accompanied by the other officers and chairmen of the permanent committees, will go to Joliet from Chicago this afternoon, and a business meeting will be held to night. The real work of the convention begins to morrow morning when the delegates will be called to order.

Mayor R. J. Barr, of Joliet, will deliver the address of welcome to which Mrs. Frake will respond, and then the delegates will get down to work, the initial business being the receiving of the reports of the secretary, treasurer and other officers.

While several matters of interest are to come up during the four days, it is likely that the most important will be that in relation to the report of the industrial committee, of which Miss Annie E. Nichols, of Chicago, is chairman. Miss Nichols announced last week that a national investigation of the conditions under which women work is to be asked, and that circular letters will be sent to all the women's clubs in the United States asking them to use their influence to have a bill passed at the next session of congress making an appropriation for such an investigation.

President Roosevelt is known to be in sympathy with this movement and it is likely to have widespread results. An opinion has been secured that a federal examination into the conditions of female labor, especially its sanitary and other questionable features, is within the province of the bureau of commerce and labor, and it is likely that the ultimate investigation will be carried on through this department of the government. It is felt that women's clubs, being organized into congressional districts, are particularly fitted to bring the matter to the attention of congress.

In connection with this question the Illinois federation will have the novel experience of being addressed by practical women workers, who can tell at first hand of some of the conditions under which women labor. Miss Agnes Nestor, of Chicago, is to tell of women in glove-making, while Miss Catherine Finnegan will describe the working conditions of the bindery women.

Some other prominent subjects that will receive attention from the delegates are, briefly, as follows:

Methods of fighting the spread of tuberculosis, the movement to be domestic and educational, and the idea being to send out literature dealing with the prevention of the disease, to aid in eliminating conditions which foster the disease and to aid in introducing the study of domestic sanitation in homes.

The passage of new forestry laws, providing for a state commission and the establishment of state preserves; it is desired to obtain legislation along lines similar to the new forest laws of Louisiana, said to be the best in America.

The proposed affiliation with the Illinois Historical society in propaganda work, it being desired to wage a campaign to interest the people of Illinois in the history of the state and to preserve historic sites and objects.

The carrying forward of the work for the consolidation of the smaller ungraded rural schools, and the provision of free transportation for rural pupils.

The extension of manual training and domestic science movements.

The establishment of a state system of traveling libraries.

Co-operation with the Illinois State Civil Service Reform league.

To aid in bettering conditions in jails and public institutions.

The following are the general officers of the Illinois federation: President, Mrs. James Frake, Chicago; vice president at large, Mrs. George Watkins, Chicago; corresponding secretary, Miss Grace B. Temple, Chicago; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Alexander, Joliet; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank L. Pills, Urbana; secretary for the general federation of Illinois, Mrs. Dorothy N. Law, Dixon.

No election for general officers is to be held this year, the only officers to be named being thirteen vice presidents. These will represent the old numbered congressional districts, the term of office of the present incumbents having expired.

SPRINGFIELD PRESBYTERY.

The Springfield Presbytery met in this city at the State Street Presbyterian church Monday afternoon, and granted certificates of dismission to other Presbyteries to two pastors, Rev. A. S. Kaye, of Mason City, and Rev. Benjamin Thomas, who has been supplying the Greenview and Sweetwater circuits.

The Presbytery was called to order at 1:30 o'clock by Rev. R. F. Cressey, the last moderator present, and the business of the meeting was at once taken up. The first matter considered was the request of Rev. A. S. Kaye, of Mason City, for a dissolution of the pastoral relation between himself and the Mason City church, in order that he might be enabled to accept a call to the church at Shelby, O. The Mason City church reluctantly concurred in this request, doing so only because they believed a change of climate was imperatively demanded by the pastor's health. He was also granted a letter of dismission to the Wooster, O., Presbytery.

The second matter of business was to grant to Rev. Benj. Thomas, who has been supplying the churches at Greenview and Sweetwater, a certificate of dismission to the Peoria Presbytery, where he has been called to the Dunlap church.

Among the members of the Presbytery present from out of the city were: Rev. A. S. Kaye and his elder, W. I. Kincaid, of Mason City, and Rev. John Boden, of Petersburg.

DEATH BY DROWNING

William Preston Lost His Life in the Mississippi—Brother of Joseph Preston of This City—Body Not Found.

Joseph Preston, of this city, and Mrs. Maggie Kehl, of Woodson, have returned from Calhoun county, where they were called last week by the drowning of a brother, William Preston, Friday morning in the Mississippi river. The body has not yet been recovered and the probability is that it will never be.

The drowning occurred Friday morning at about 9 o'clock, one-half mile from Bay Town, where Mr. Preston lived, in widening of the Mississippi river, known as Hamburg Bay, on the Illinois side, three miles above Hamburg. The tragedy was witnessed by a number of men working at the head of Moser's Island, about a quarter of a mile distant across the bay, and their story is about as follows:

Preston was about twenty feet from the bank of Willow Island, in the boat channel below a government dike, where the water was about 25 feet deep, in a boat and was in the act of lifting a net from the water when he appeared to slip, and failing to catch himself, jumped backward into the water. He then swam about the boat and struck for the shore, but went down when about ten feet from safety, and was seen no more. The current at the place where the body went down is swift and the water very deep, even a few feet from land.

The search for the body was continued until Sunday evening, drag hooks, dynamite and other means being used without avail. It is supposed that the remains were washed into one of the numerous crevices which abound along that part of the river, and were there covered with sand. If such is the case they will, perhaps, never be recovered.

Mr. Preston was about 40 years of age and leaves a wife and four children, his mother and two brothers, Benji and Wesley, of Missouri, one brother, Joseph, of this city, and another, James, of Ceres, and two sisters, Mrs. Maggie Kehl, of Woodson, and Amanda Becker, of this city.

The sacred concert at the Christian church Sunday evening was heard by an audience which occupied all of the available space in the church, many standing. The program was arranged with care and was unusually interesting. The different numbers were as follows:

Prelude—Organ.
Anthem—"Come Thou Fount," Choir.
Hymn—Congregation.
Duet—"Oh Morning Land," Miss Wharton and Mrs. Green.

Hymn—Congregation.
Prayer by the pastor, with response.
Congregational Singing.
Scripture lessons by pastor.
Male Chorus, "Not Ashamed of Jesus."

The pastor preached an appropriate sermon, the theme of which was the power of music over human souls, and the services closed with the congregational singing.
The male chorus was the special feature of the service. It was composed of the following: First tenors, H. J. Henderson and Arthur Mills; second tenors, R. Y. Duncan and Guy B. Williamson; first basses, C. J. Wolfe and James Watt; second basses, C. L. Mathis and W. G. Wolfe.

"PARSIFAL"

Grand Production Delighted
Fine Audience at the Grand
Monday Night.

Like a lofty peak rising above a range of mountains is such a bill as Parsifal, among the usual list presented at the opera house in our city. It vividly brings to mind the immortal poem of Tennyson.

"From a lifeless arms and acts of prowess done
In tournament or tilt, Sir Percival
Whom Arthur and his knights called the brave,
Ambrosius, fellow monk ———"

Then on the mystic story goes as the holy men sit in the monastery:
"The holy maid ———"

And O, my brother Percival, she said,
"Sweet brother, I have seen the Holy Grail."

"Streamed through my cell a cold and silver beam,
And down the long beam stole the Holy Grail."

"Then on a summer night it came to pass,
While the great banquet lay along the hall,
That Galland would sit down in Merlin's chair.

And all at once, as there we sat, we heard
A cracking and piling of the roof."

"And in the blast there smote along the hall
A beam of light seven times more clear
Than day."

And down the long beam stole the Holy Grail."

And so the story is told in the grand verse of the great poet. As the legend goes in the north of Spain and in the vicinity of Mt. Salvat stood the Castle of the Holy Grail, by which from which the Savior drank with his disciples at the last supper, in which His blood was received at the cross. The sacred cup was faithfully guarded by a band of pure minded men known as the Knights of the Holy Grail. Entrance into their circle was much coveted, and one Klingschir, aspired to join them, but his application was refused for the reason that his life was too unworthy to permit of ministrations upon a sacred vessel. Revenged, Klingschir determined to seduce the Knights of the Grail, and to this end studied magic arts. He created for himself a fairy palace which he peopled with beautiful women. One of these women, the mysterious Kundry, wonderfully fascinating, beguiled Anfortas, King of the Knights, and brought him under the power of Klingschir, who took from him the sacred spear with which the Savior's side was pierced. In the combat Anfortas received a wound which could never be healed so long as the weapon remained in the hands of Klingschir, the wicked magician. An angel came to Anfortas in a vision and told him that one day an "unknown innocent" would come to heal him. The "unknown" is Parsifal, who resists the wiles of Kundry, recovers the spear and heals the wound of Anfortas.

Of course such a noble production demands a noble treatment also it was, sacrilege. Whatever pertains to the tragic scenes of the great sacrifice made for man by the Immortal One on Calvary has for all persons possessed of true soul a great fascination and Parsifal is no exception to the rule. The cast last night was excellent, the leading parts being admirably taken. Among the gentlemen, Mr. Dashiell as the wicked and repentant black knight, Klingschir, easily took the honors. His reading was superb and his acting was in keeping with his character, while his make up was excellent. Mr. Grattan, as Parsifal, the innocent shepherd youth, later a soldier of the cross and king's warden of the Holy Grail, was good all the way through. The part of Kundry, a strange and curious mixture, that woman at which a being of transcendent and captivating beauty who doomed to suffer the penalty of a violated conscience, yearns for salvation, yet is unable to resist the spell of Klingschir, by whose mesmeric influence she is hopelessly enthralled, was well taken by Miss Taylor. The variety of emotions called for and the many varied scenes through which the character passes all called for talent of a high order which was possessed by the lady. The other parts were well done. Mr. Cotton, as Anfortas, prince of Cappadocia and chief warden of the Holy Grail, did his part admirably and Mr. Rupp, the priestly chaplain of the Grail was fine. The others were also good. The young ladies representing the narcotic blooms in Klingschir's garden and the gentlemen representing the wardens of the Holy Grail, all being well up in their parts as were the rest of the cast.

The setting of the production is of remarkable beauty and in all respects the most complete ever seen outside of New York. In beauty of coloring, in excellence of perspective, in harmonious use of lights, in panoramic mechanism, and in its illusions of magic and mystery it is worthy to be compared with the achievements of the Corried forces. The sacred forest is pictured in subdued radiance, and when it gives way to the rocky fastness leading to the Castle of the Grail a very fine illusion of space and mystery is obtained. The interior of the temple is practically identical with the treatment of the same scene in New York and when it is said that it fulfills every demand made by the author's text and stage directions the highest praise is given.

The paganry and the rites which transpire against this glorious background are wrought out in a spirit of reverence that is absolutely unimpeachable.

It is to be regretted that a stormy night rendered the audience smaller than it should have been though it was enthusiastic and several times the curtain was called at the close of a meritorious act.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES
The following persons expect to attend the Y. M. C. A. state convention as delegates from the local association: A. T. Capps, L. J. Garus, H. E. Pearce, Henry Lindsay, Homer Potter, A. C. St. Patrick's Purgatory.
According to the medieval legend, there was an entrance to purgatory on the island of Lough Beg, on the coast of Ireland. It was simply the mouth of a common cave or cavern, but St. Patrick is said to have built a monastery over it and to have secured the opening with an immense grating iron door. The place became widely known as "St. Patrick's purgatory," and it was generally believed that any one who had the courage to explore the pit would be excused the trial of passing through the real purgatory after death. The fame of the place was largely due to a poem written in 1153 by Henry of Saltery which pretended to relate the experience of Sir Oynys Miles, who had embraced the opportunity of expiating his crimes in its darksome depths.

In the year 1406 a monk from Holland visited the celebrated shrine and afterward declared that what was claimed for it was a "travesty on religion" and that the so called "purgatory" differed in no respect from dozens of other known caverns. This news was conveyed to the pope, who ordered the monastery destroyed and the cavern closed up. This order was carried out to the letter on St. Patrick's day, 1407.

He Wanted a Rebate.
Squire Haykorn was a close fist old gentleman who seldom wasted any money in traveling about the country for the purpose of enjoying himself, but he had heard a great deal concerning the beauties of a trip down the St. Lawrence river, and, having made a number of lucky trades one summer, he determined to make the journey if it did not cost too much.

With this end in view he went to a ticket office and inquired as to the price of a round trip, going by boat and returning by rail.

The agent told him:
"Shall I see the Thousand Islands?"
"Yes, sir."

"Well, I'll take it," said the squire. He bought his ticket and went away. About two weeks later he put an appearance at the ticket office again.

"Didn't you tell me," he asked, "that if I made that trip down the St. Lawrence river I'd see the Thousand Islands?"

"Certainly," answered the ticket agent.

"Well, I hadn't anything else to do, and I put in my time counting 'em. All I saw was a little over 300. I want two-thirds of my money back."

Flowers of the autumn season added their beauty to the interior adornments of the house and the artistic placing of cosmos and dahlias made a floral picture that was very pretty.

The entertainment provided was unique, and the guests were invited to participate in a rug making which was entered into with a zest and earnestness that resulted most happily. ## NAVAL SCHOOL MAY BE LOST

SANITARY CONDITIONS AT LAKE BLUFF AND LAKE FOREST MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Visit Paid by Dr. E. F. Baker as Representative of State Board of Health—Report to Be Submitted to Governor—Facts About the Case.

As a result of an investigation made by officers of the United States government rumors are rife that the naval station at Lake Bluff, Ill., may be relocated. Congress has not yet passed the appropriation necessary for the equipment of the station and agents of other sites who fought the location originally expect to make use of a report recently submitted regarding unsafe sanitary conditions at Lake Bluff.

Senator Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, visited the town of Lake Forest last summer and learned from Dr. Haven, the health officer of Lake Forest, of the sanitary agitation that was being carried on in an effort to secure relief from the polluted waters incident to the tannery at Kenosha and a glucose factory at Waukegan, and in company with Dr. Haven made an auto trip to Lake Bluff and found that similar sanitary conditions existed.

It was supposed at the time that Senator Alger was merely a summer visitor at Lake Forest, but in view of recent developments it is thought that his real object was to learn the truth of the rumors regarding bad sanitary conditions at Lake Bluff and to use his influence to secure a reopening of the question of the location of the site when the next congress convenes. An attempt will be made to show that the Michigan side of the lake offers superior advantages to the present location, which would really endanger the health of men trained there.

There are now nearly a half dozen members of the engineering corps at Lake Bluff under Captain Ross of the regular army. Captain Ross is at present in California and Lieutenant McKay is in charge. These men verify reports of residents at Lake Forest and other points nearby regarding the discoloration of the water, its polluted condition and noxious odors that issue from the waters thus contaminated. Lieutenant McKay is of the opinion that the report of the government officers who visited Lake Bluff this summer has not as yet been submitted, but will soon be in the hands of naval officials. Agents of other states that are anxious to secure the site know of the investigation that has been made and if they are not successful in getting the question of the location of site reopened, they will bend their endeavors in the direction of preventing the needed appropriation of money to equip the station and make it a naval training school. The retention of the site at Lake Bluff will mean the erection of buildings sufficient in size to accommodate 2,000 or 3,000 sailors and there will be an equipment along the lines of target practice that will mean many gunboats and other armed vessels.

The engineering corps now at Lake Bluff have busied themselves with making profiles of the land and otherwise taking the preliminary steps looking toward the erection of buildings, docks and shore alterations.

It is understood Cleveland, Ohio, is making a heavy bid for the re-location of the station and it may be that leaders in the Buckeye state have secured the co-operation of the Wolverine statesman.

Incidental to the investigation by the government officials at Lake Bluff is the investigation now being made by the state board of health, resultant from an agitation begun by the citizens of Lake Forest. It seems that the pollution of the waters of Lake Michigan has been a source of great annoyance to the residents of that aristocratic suburb for many months. Recently a number of residents employed the legal firm of Scott, Hancock, Lord & Stevens to take the matter up and secure what relief they could in the premises. This firm was unable to find any precedent to guide them in the reports, and had an analysis of the water in question made by Professor Long of Northwestern university, also chemist for the Illinois state board of health, which confirmed the contentions of the residents of Lake Forest regarding discoloration of water, polluted condition and noxious odors. The next action of the attorneys was to appeal to the state board of health. As a result of the appeal Dr. E. F. Baker, of Jacksonville, special officer of the state board, went to Lake Forest Saturday and spent two days there. He also visited Lake Bluff. His report was filed with Dr. Egan, head of the state board of health, and shows the conditions to be practically as shown by the analyses of Professor Long. The details of Dr. Baker's report he refused to make public and are known only to Dr. Egan, head of the state board of health. It is more than likely that Dr. Egan will bring the matter to the attention of Governor Deenah as the point at issue is as much a matter of law and executive authority as sanitation. Dr. Baker stated that the polluted conditions existed and that they were undoubtedly caused by the immense quantities of sewage and refuse matter dumped into Lake Michigan by the cities above Lake Forest within a distance of twenty-five or thirty miles. The glucose factory at Waukegan dumps into the lake from their plant an average of over 4,000,000 gallons of refuse per day. A percentage of this refuse is glucose and from this substance gases are given off forming the noxious odors complained of by the residents of Lake Forest. The tannery located at Kenosha, Wis., is one of the largest in the world and large quantities of refuse from this source is a serious factor in the polluted conditions.

The question at issue with the state board of health is: "Can health authorities compel factories to treat their sewage chemically before dumping it into a stream which is a source of water supply to other places?" In some states laws of this character are in vogue, but it is doubtful if there is any existing statute in Illinois from which such power could even be inferred. In states where large manufacturing plants are compelled to treat their refuse matter the best method has been found to be by means of septic tanks. There is also a chemical sterilization process, but it is not so effective.

The glucose plant at Waukegan claims that if they were compelled to so treat their refuse matter that the cost would be prohibitive and compel them to shut down the plant.

The question that has been raised as a mere matter of sanitary regulation may be fraught with far-reaching consequences and some interesting legal phases appear on the surface. The people of Lake Forest who have spent large sums upon the handsome residences and ground there located are naturally vitally interested and the contention is made that the drinking water supply of Lake Forest has already become affected by the refuse matter coming down in such large quantities from above. When the wind is in certain directions the odor is most disagreeable and relief in the premises is eagerly sought.

MISCELLANEOUS
New York, Oct. 16.—Want of enterprise was practically dormant in the stock market to day and the amount of business done was insignificant. Habitual operators in stock failed to find any reason to take part in the market in the face of the extraordinary attitude of barred and influential capitalists and cautious tone of public comment on the situation. On the other hand there is no reason to believe that the market is seeking liquidation and professional operators for this reason refrain from attacks on the market and are content to put prices lower. ## J. W. DENTON IS DEAD

Was at One Time Photographer in This City—Kicked by a Horse While an Exhibitor at the Coliseum

J. W. Denton, of Bloomington, Ill., was injured, probably fatally, by being kicked by a horse at the coliseum during the horse show matinee yesterday. Mr. Denton was leaving the building with his string of horses to ship them to Kansas City, where they were to take part in the horse show commencing tomorrow. His men, leading the horses, had gone on ahead of him, and mixed in with the line of departing animals were several belonging to J. R. Peck & Son of Winchester, Ill.

The last horse in the line was being led by Mr. Denton. The next horse ahead of him belonged to the Peck stable. As the man leading this horse reached the exit he halted to hand his season ticket to the man at the gate in compliance with the rules of the horse show.

As he halted Mr. Denton is said to have allowed the horse he was leading to close up on the one in front. The Peck horse jumped to one side and kicked, both iron clad hoofs striking Mr. Denton, one in the abdomen and the other at the lower ribs. He fell unconscious and was placed in a chair and carried to a near-by hotel where he was attended by Dr. A. G. Bernays. The physician held out hope last night for the recovery of his patient. Early in the evening it was planned to move the injured man to a hospital, but this plan was abandoned when it was learned how serious his condition was. J. E. Van Epps of 512 North Channing avenue was sitting in a buggy a few feet away and saw the accident. He says it was unavoidable on the part of all, except, perhaps, Mr. Denton himself.

The accident happened underneath the auditorium of the coliseum, where the horses are kept, and very few in the crowd knew anything of it. The performance went on without interruption.

Mrs. Denton came from Bloomington Friday night to see the show, and was waiting at the hotel for her husband when he was carried in. Among other local dealers in horses Mr. Denton is well known. Larry Kavanaugh, Dr. C. W. Crowley, Robert Aull and others remembered him as an annual visitor to the old St. Louis fair and to the recent horse show. He owns a large stable in Bloomington and makes a specialty of saddle horses. He had recently shown horses at Indianapolis and at the state fair at Springfield.

RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

Attempted Burglary at Burlington Station Sunday Evening—No Clue—Items of Interest and Personal Mention.

The Burlington passenger depot was broken into Sunday evening between 8 and 8:15 o'clock by two unknown men. An attempt was made to secure what money was in the cash drawer, but in this the burglars failed.

Thomas McNamara, the day operator, left the office at 6 o'clock, going home to supper. At the time he left a young boy, Eugene Sweeney, was standing on the platform. Directly after McNamara left young Sweeney went to Welch's lunch room, where he stayed about six or seven minutes, then returned to the depot. On returning he was confronted by two men, one of them asking him, "What time will the operator be back?" Sweeney answered, "Nine o'clock I suppose." The unknown, who asked the question turned to his partner, and said, "That will be all right," and left. Just then the night operator came in and was talking with the boy, when the two men came back and asked, "What time will the baggage room be opened in the morning?" They then left going toward the Alton depot. As it was not time for the night operator to go on duty, he, without entering the office went out.

Sweeney and two other boys stayed at the depot until McNamara returned from supper about 6:25 p. m. On entering the office he at once noticed that something was wrong, as the door lock was broken and the cabinet cases, in which coupon tickets are kept, was open. He asked the boys how long they had been there and they answered about fifteen minutes. He then told them some one had been in the office. On closer examination it was found that the money drawer had been tampered with, but had not been opened.

It is thought the burglars were frightened by Sweeney coming back from the lunch room and that they stepped from the office into the waiting room, where Sweeney found them upon entering.

The police were at once notified to which call Capt. Kennedy and Officer Murgatroyd responded and arriving at the depot found Officer Montgomery on hand. A search was made of the surrounding buildings, and yards, but it was impossible to locate any of the parties.
